July 2008. Four families are riding high on heady market returns until the body of Rene McAllister, wife of multi-millionaire Alan "Mac" McAllister, washes up on the beach after a daylong Fourth of July bash at the home of stockbroker, Matthew Wirth. Eager to avoid publicity, authorities dismiss her death as an accident. Days later, when the body of college drop out, Jamie Sherman, a neighbor to Wirth, is discovered adrift in his fishing skiff, investigators suspect foul play, but the medical examiner reports that the youth died of a drug overdose. Only Detective James Raker, upon hearing McAllister's complaints of unauthorized trading in his deceased wife's account, suspects the two deaths are related. Bucking his superiors, Raker plunges into an investigation and quickly discovers that at least four members of the affluent lakeside community had motive and opportunity in either one or both of the deaths. Raker's pursuit slams headlong into an investigation being conducted by the State Bureau of Investigation (SBI) who were closing in on Jamie Sherman's drug dealings in the affluent neighborhood. Ignoring the orders to back off, Raker fears that another life is at stake and races to prevent it. The killer does strike for a third time but, tragically, claims the wrong victim. The story is set in the fictitious bed-room community on Heron Lake, NC, a short commute from Charles City, a metropolitan area of more than 1,000,000 and the financial center of the state.

Luis Gazaway:

As a scholar exactly feel bored to be able to reading. If their teacher asked them to go to the library or to make summary for some book, they are complained. Just minor students that has reading's heart and soul or real their pastime. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to go to the library. They go to at this time there but nothing reading very seriously. Any students feel that looking at is not important, boring in addition to can't see colorful photographs on there. Yeah, it is to become complicated. Book is very important to suit your needs. As we know that on this age, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Deadly Portfolio: A Killing in Hedge Funds can make you truly feel more interested to read.
