He's been in love with her since they were children. She thinks she's getting married to a complete stranger.

When the wedding night ends in tragedy, the only thing two lovers need is to trust that LOVE KNOWS NO LIMIT—not even death.

Constance has never been in love—not that she can remember. When her parents followed the family tradition and arranged for her to marry a young, successful businessman, she finds him unexplainably attractive and familiar. Not only is he strikingly handsome, but for no apparent reason, William seems completely besotted with her. Pleasantly surprised by how connected they feel to each other, Constance finds herself looking forward to a new life with this stranger.

Everyone is enjoying the wedding until William is suddenly and violently killed. Numb and in shock, Constance wanders around his grand, family mansion on his vast estate—now hers—looking for a place to escape his well-meaning but overbearing parents. Finding herself repeatedly drawn to the family graveyard in the far end of the estate, Constance stumbles upon the truth: William isn't actually gone.

Trapped in another world, William's love for Constance is their only link. Can Constance bring herself to believe in magic as she once did as a child? Can she find a way to stop William from fading out of her reach—forever?
