Instructional Partnerships: A Pathway to Leadership Judi Moreillon, Susan Ballard

In this Best of Knowledge Quest monograph, the editors have collected seminal articles to support pre-service and in-service school librarians in developing and strengthening the instructional partner role. Instructional Partnerships: A Pathway to Leadership provides readers with background knowledge, research-based evidence, and examples of instructional partnerships in action. Serving in this role positions school librarians as key faculty in improving student learning outcomes through building collaborative partnerships for instruction. These articles, published between 1998 and 2012, have stood the test of time and attest to the American Association of School Librarians' long-time commitment to school librarians serving in this vital capacity. Valuable for both novices and seasoned instructional partners, this monograph offers a guide to success on this pathway to leadership.
